CARROLL BEGINS PRISON TERM

PRODUCER IS TAKEN TO ATLANTA AFTER HOSPITAL SESSION

Attorney General Says
Nothing The Matter
With Prisoner

ATLANTA, June 8.—Earl Carroll, New York theatrical producer, arrived here early today to start serving his sentence of a year and a day, imposed following his conviction on charges of perjury.

Carroll was accompanied by Henry Cunningham, United States deputy marshal of New York, who has guarded the convicted man since he became ill in Greenville, S. C.

Carroll and his guard left Greenville at 1:25 a. m., arriving at the terminal station here at 5:25. The theater man was taken to the federal prison at once. Warden John W. Snook was on hand to greet him.

Carroll's removal to Atlanta followed Attorney General Sargent's refusal to take any action on his behalf, claiming that physicians who examined him in the Greenville City Hospital had stated "there was nothing the matter with him."

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Earl Carroll, New York theatrical producer, is to begin his sentence of a year and a day in Atlanta prison at once.

Fast on the heels of Attorney General Sargent's decision that "there is nothing the matter" with Carroll, the producer was placed aboard an Atlanta-bound train at Greenville, S. C. early this morning and started on the road to prison.

Carroll collapsed while enroute to the prison six weeks ago and was removed from the train at Greenville where he supposedly lay in a "coma" for some days. Last week the department of justice sent two physicians to Greenville to examine him. It was apparently on their report that Sargent directed the producer to be removed to the prison.

Carroll will get no credit for the time spent in Greenville. His sentence begins from the time he enters the prison.

REPORT 2,600 DEAD FOLLOWING BATTLE FOR CHINESE CITY

Nationalists Capture Hanchung—Air Attacks Deadly

SHANGHAI, June 8.—After a 36-hour battle in which 2,600 men were killed and wounded, (according to a Nationalist communiqué), Nationalist troops captured Hanchung, the northern defenders retreating towards Linching, said advice received here today. The battle ended Tuesday.

Airplanes attached to the Nationalist army participated, bombing railway stations and troop positions. The Nationalist communiqué said that the air attacks demoralized the Shantungites.

Large numbers of wounded are arriving at Hankow daily from Honan, indicating that severe fighting continues in that region. The hospital situation at Hankow is critical due to the intense heat and the lack of facilities to treat the wounded who was estimated at 12,000.

Gen. Chiang Kai Shek's influence is spreading in Kiangsi. Many Kuomintang have joined Chiang's army.

FIRE DESTROYS OIL TANKS AT LORAIN

LORAIN, June 8.—Five large tanks containing oil and gasoline, owned by the Rogers Oil Company of Lorain, were destroyed by fire, believed to have started from the spark of a cap pistol, fired by a boy, playing near a truck which was taking a supply of gasoline. Loss was estimated at $40,000. Carolyn Rogers, 20, son of the owner of the plant, was burned about the face and hands when he attempted to shut off a pump.

MANY LIVES LOST IN SEVERE HURRICANE

SOFIA, Bulgaria, June 8.—Many lives were reported lost today in a terrific hurricane, which ravaged the Anachlos district of the Black Sea coast. Houses were blown down, trees uprooted, vessels sunk and heavy damage done to crops.

LINDBERGH TO ARRIVE SATURDAY

CHAMBERLIN'S HOME FOLKS RECALL CHILDHOOD PRANKS

CLARENCE CHAMBERLIN WAS FOUR YEARS OLD WHEN THE PICTURE IN THE UPPER LEFT CORNER WHICH SHOWS HIM WITH HIS SISTER WAS TAKEN. IN THE CENTER IS A PORTRAIT OF THE FLYER AT EIGHTEEN, AND ON THE RIGHT HIS SISTER. NOW MRS. MAX MOFFITT, WITH HER DAUGHTER. BELOW IS THE SCENE BEFORE THE CHAMBERLIN STORE WHEN THE NEWS OF HIS LANDING IN GERMANY ARRIVED, AND ON THE RIGHT, THE CHAMBERLIN FAMILY IN THE FIRST AUTO DENISON, I. A. HAD EVER SEEN, CLARENCE AND HIS SISTER PROUDLY PERCHED ON THE "SEVERAL MEN" TOP IN THE BACK OF THE CAR.

DENISON, Ia., June 8.—A tall, spare, white-haired man beamed through horn-rimmed glasses at a motherly, gray-haired woman, and with his right arm thrown affectionately across her shoulders, said:

"Maw, the boy came through." Mrs. E. C. Chamberlin smiled back at him and said, with a touch of playful asperity:

"Come through? Of course he came through."

Whatever uneasiness Clarence Chamberlin's parents may have felt—and it would hardly be natural for them to maintain an entirely composed aspect in view of the fact that their only son was facing the perils of 3,000 miles of the treacherous North Atlantic—they never lost confidence in the daring flyer's ability to carry through his great adventure to its successful conclusion.

"The boy is a mechanical genius," the elder Chamberlin told me. "He isn't reckless, although he's full of courage. No contingency which he might expect to meet would be left unprovided for. I was sure he would succeed."

Always a Mechanic

Denison, Clarence Chamberlin's home town, where he played as a boy, and from which he went to flying school when automobiles became too dull, and the urge to try aviation seized hold of him, is agreed as to his mechanical genius, but some of the oldsters still think that there is a streak of

EDMUND VANCE COOKE

Edmund Vance Cooke, Cleveland writer, lecturer and poet, addressed the seventy-four graduates of Central High School and a large crowd that filled the First M. E. Church for the sixty-eighth annual commencement exercises Tuesday night.

BODY OF SENORA CALLES IN STATE

MEXICO CITY, June 8.—The body of Senora Calles, wife of the president, will lie in state today for a few hours in Chapultepec castle, and then be interred in Dolores Cemetery just outside of Mexico City.

Members of the cabinet, high government officials and diplomats were at the railroad station to meet the body on its arrival and an escort of soldiers and police was lined up. Thousands gathered along the route of the funeral procession to pay their tribute. Government business has been suspended.

PUBLIC SCHOOL PRESERVER OF DEMOCRACY GRADUATES TOLD

Edmund Vance Cooke Advises Seventy-Four Central High Seniors When They Receive Diplomas From Superintendent

Using poetry to tell truths about life and nature in an adequate and beautiful way, Edmund Vance Cooke, Cleveland, O., author and lecturer, spoke on "1900 and Now," at the sixty-eighth annual commencement of Central High School Tuesday night at the First M. E. Church when seventy-four graduates, the third largest class in the school's history, were awarded diplomas.

A capacity crowd filled the church to overflowing.

The lecturer used original poems, some familiar, and others composed for the occasion, to give language to universal emotions, and to interpret life in general and touch on arduous work ahead.

"Alexander," the speaker said, "because he conquered the ancient world; and Napoleon, because he conquered the modern world, alone have a claim in history to be called truly great, but the test of true greatness today, is the way we meet the eternal every day. Be a lord of faith and a servant of truth."

"The public school is the preserver of democracy and the future is in the hands of you graduates rather than in our hands. It is yours to finish the problems that confront this generation and which will eventually confront you. Why shouldn't we expect a solution from you? Where else shall we look for individual leadership than among those in whom instruction has been expended?"

Mr. Cooke complimented the mother as the patron saint of the home and characterized the father as a true philosopher of deeds rather than words.

"The motor car," he asserted, "has become the emblem of achievement of '1900 and Now.' Henry Ford has become the greatest man since Shakespeare. Both created new languages."

"It has been truly said that society owes a debt of gratitude to the man who made two blades of grass grow where one grew before but what shall we say of the man

CHILLICOTHE HAS ROTARY GOLF MEET

CHILLICOTHE, O., June 8.—For the first time in its history Chillicothe Rotary Club will be host to 100 to 150 golfers of twenty-second district club teams in the annual Rotary golf tournament to be held here June 28 over the Chillicothe Country Club links. Teams are expected from Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Troy, Greenville, Piqua, Marietta, Portsmouth, Washington, C. H., Hamilton, Newark, Lancaster and Jackson.

"LUCKY" AGAIN

CLEVELAND, June 8.—Photos of Charles Lindbergh, New York to Paris non-stop flyer, displayed in the show window of a local furrier, saved the firm approximately $1,500 here when a robber smashed the window and stole a fur piece valued at $150 the only one within reach. The others had been removed to permit display of the pictures.

MEMPHIS IS MAKING FAST TIME; FLYER IS CRUISER'S IDOL

"Lindy" Happy When
Seated in Navy Plane
On Ship

ON BOARD U. S. CRUISER MEMPHIS, June 8.—(By Radio to I. N. S.)—Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh is in the home stretch of his homeward journey today. The Memphis has encountered fine weather throughout the voyage from Cherbourg and has made excellent time, averaging twenty-three knots an hour. If the present schedule is maintained the cruiser should enter Chesapeake Bay Saturday morning.

Lindbergh has the run of the ship and is having the time of his life. He is enjoying every minute of the voyage and is a popular young idol with every man on board from the commander down to the humblest Jackie.

Evidence of his popularity with the crew was shown by the keen rivalry among the men as to which table should have the honor of his presence when it became known that he wanted to eat with the crew.

Lindbergh has inspected the ship and especially the two scout planes on board. He climbed into the cockpit of one of them and the smile of contentment upon his face showed his pleasure over getting once more in contact with an airplane.

The young aviator has spent much time with Vice Admiral Burman discussing the possibility of regular trans-oceanic airplane service. Lindbergh was particularly anxious to get the vice admiral's views upon the feasibility of establishing commercial air bases at sea so that airplanes could refuel or take refuge if forced down by mechanical trouble, storms or exhaustion of fuel.

It is evident from Lindbergh's whole conversation that all his heart is in his life work—aviation. He is always studying his subject and seeking a fresh viewpoint upon the problems of flying.

Lindbergh refuses to discuss his future plans, but whatever they are they deal with flying. For a week or two after his arrival his time will be taken up completely receiving honors from the American people. When the ovations and fetes are over he will be ready to settle down to work.

Even out in the Atlantic there are evidences of the universal interest in the daring young aviator. The steamship Bremen changed her course so that she could come within 1,600 feet of the Memphis to give the passengers a view of Lindbergh. The youthful aviator was out upon the main deck when the Bremen passed and saluted him.

PICKPOCKETS PREY ON ROTARIAN MEET

OSTEND, Belgium, June 8.—Pickpockets, attracted here from all over Europe by the crowds attending the international convention of Rotarians, kept the police active today.

D. J. Eubank, of Shreveport, La., reported that his wallet had been stolen. It was recovered later but 400 francs were missing from it. An Ohio delegate, whose identity was not revealed, lost three pairs of trousers during raids by the thieves.

HONORS FOR JUDD SUNSHINE, Pa., June 8.—

Charles Lindbergh and Judd Gray are Pennsylvania's representatives in congress. George Washington is governor of the state.

These were a few of the answers found on application papers at a citizenship court here where a large class sought first papers. Several applicants were sent home with instructions to study up a bit more.

PUGILIST'S HOME DAMAGED BY DYNAMITE - CANCELS FIGHT

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 8.—Unnerved by a second dynamite move against him, Morris Billings, known as "Young Montreal," Rhode Island pugilist, today cancelled his bout next Friday at Bayonne, N. J., with George Mack. On the heels of the attempt to dynamite "Young Montreal's" poolroom in the Crown Hotel, came an attempt last night to blow up his home here.

The piazza was blown into the street, windows shattered and the entire north end was shaken by the blast, but there were no casualties.

CHAMBERLIN AND HIS COMPANION ROYALLY GREETED BY GERMANS

Vast Crowds Delay Trip To President's Mansion—
Many Entertainments Planned For
Americans In Berlin

BERLIN, June 8.—Clarence D. Chamberlin and his flying companion, Charles A. Levine, who made a non-stop flight of 4,000 miles from New York to Germany, were received today by President Von Hindenburg, of the German republic, at the presidential mansion.

Although the journey from the American embassy to the presidential palace is but a three minute drive, the crowds made it impossible for the fliers to make much progress in Ambassador Schurman's car.

The police held back huge throngs who insisted upon getting as close as possible to the aviators and shouting their throaty "hochs."

At the entrance to the presidential palace there was a crowd of 3,000 and at the approach of the two Americans they broke through the lines holding up the ambassador's car for several minutes.

Two steel-helmeted Reichwehr soldiers, standing on guard at the entrance to the palace, snapped to attention and saluted as Chamberlin, laughing and smiling, acknowledged all the greetings while Levine looked straight ahead, apparently somewhat embarrassed by the demonstration.

President Hindenburg, with Secretary Meisner, was awaiting the guests just inside the palace doors and greeted them cordially as Ambassador Schurman introduced them. The president extended his felicitation to the fliers and lauded their achievement.

The two fliers were probably the most informally dressed persons ever received in presidential audience in Germany. Levine wore a striped business suit and Chamberlin was attired in a flying jacket and plus-fours, the same garb he had worn across the Atlantic.

President Hindenburg gave each of the fliers his autographed photograph, in a silver frame. Tonight Ambassador Schurman will give a formal dinner at the embassy in honor of the airmen.

Chancellor Marx and other prominent Germans have been invited. Foreign Secretary Stresemann is expected to entertain the Americans at a formal breakfast tomorrow morning and on Friday they will be the guests of the city of Berlin at a reception at the city hall.

Honorary entertainments piled up so fast that there is danger of a conflict in dates. The American Club planned a dinner and dance for the visitors at the Adlon Hotel Friday night. Herr Wilhelm Koeh, minister of transport in the Marx cabinet, sent out invitations for a dinner in their honor for the evening. If both functions are held the Americans will divide their time between the two affairs.

Officials of the Luftthansa Company Germany's great commercial air transport enterprise—will entertain the fliers at a dinner Saturday evening.

In between these numerous honorary social events the Americans will be sightseeing. Both expressed a desire to visit Potsdam and see the palace of the former kaiser.

In addition to the numerous congratulatory messages gifts of all kinds are being received at the embassy. The printed report that both Chamberlin and Levine had expressed a preference for Pilsner beer led to numerous gifts of this beverage. It is evident that the Americans will not be thirsty during their visit to Germany. The high interest of the German people in the flight and the men who made it was evidenced by the crowds which gathered close to the American embassy and which struggled to get a view of the Americans when they went abroad in the streets. They were cheered wherever they went.

"It was certainly a great reception," said Levine referring to the arrival of the Columbia at Tempelhofer flying field last yesterday afternoon when 150,000 persons roared themselves hoarse with "hochs" and shouts of welcome. "It was a sincere and wholehearted welcome and the Americans told

WILE SAYS:

China Situation
Evacuation Looms
Japs Watchful
Goodbye Peking

By FREDERIC WILLIAM WILE

Exclusive Dispatch, Copyright 1927

ASHINGTON, June 8.—Announcement

by President Coolidge that the United States, in common with other powers, has in "general contemplation" the transfer of legation activities to Tientsin is fraught with implications of far-reaching importance. On its face, the announcement indicates that the powers fear that Peking, as a stronghold of the old China, is doomed, and that Nationalist China, sooner or later is destined to wield political power there in its stead. Undoubtedly the United States and other foreign governments would only resume diplomatic occupation in Peking as the capital of the new, or Nationalist China.

... If the Nationalists should set up their seat of government elsewhere, the powers naturally would be governed accordingly. But it is regarded a foregone conclusion that Peking, for many reasons, is to become the Nationalist headquarters. The tomb of Sun Yat Sen, who has been canonized as the Lenin of the Cantonese movement, is in Peking, the Nationalist pioneer having died in the Rockefeller hospital at the old capital in 1925. That sentimental circumstance, it is believed, will induce the Nationalists to make the city their political citadel.

... The tragic memories of the Boxer rebellion in 1900 are mainly the considerations which have led the Washington and other governments to think of evacuating Peking. Two separate expeditions were required 27 years ago this summer to bring about the relief of the beleaguered legations there. Between 15,000 and 20,000 allied soldiers and sailors had to be mobilized before Peking could be reached. For the better part of a month, beginning with the bombardment of allied warships by the Taku forts and including hard fighting around Tientsin and on the march

Cedar Clara McMillan, formerly of Cedarville, who is a member of the faculty of Salem College, Winston-Salem, N. C., will sail from New York City, June 11 on the "Tuscan" for Europe to spend the summer. Miss McMillan has many friends in Xenia and is a sister of Mr. Fred C. McMillan. She has frequently visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Carper, N. Gal-lowsay St.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henning, Tulsa, Okla., have been spending a few days with Mr. B. H. Slagle, this city. Mrs. Henning and Mr. Slagle are sister and brother.

Mr. William Herbert Radnor, O., was the guest of his niece, Mrs. A. J. Furstenberger, over the weekend. He left Wednesday with the Rev. Mr. Furstenberger for Columbus, O.

Mrs. Anna M. Haverstick, W. Market St., has returned from Dayton, where she spent the past week with Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Reynolds, of Hills and Dales.

Miss Cora Matthews, teacher at Lauman School, who underwent a serious operation at McClellan hospital, Saturday morning, is doing nicely.

FOURTEEN RECEIVE DEGREES OF GRANGE

Fourteen candidates were conferred with the third and fourth degrees at the Caesar Creek Grange meeting, at Caesar Creek High School, Tuesday night. The degree work was put on by the degree team from Mount Pleasant which also staged a drill.

Tableaux also followed the degree work. About 200 people attended the meeting. Tentative plans were laid for the organization of a juvenile Grange at Caesar Creek, by Mrs. S. H. Shawhan. Refreshments were served after the meeting.

Joseph Fichter, state Grange lecturer and superintendent of Butler County Schools, Hamilton, O., will give an address before the newly organized Grange at Cedarville in the community hall, next Tuesday night. The meeting will be open and a large crowd is expected.

Fifth degree work will be put on at a Pomona Grange meeting at Alpha, the night of June 24.

CONSTRUCTION OF BUILDING STARTS

Excavation work preparatory to the erection of a one-story brick building on property on E. Main St., formerly the old Bloom property, recently purchased by the Lang Chevrolet Co. from H. L. Binder as a new site for its agency, was begun Wednesday.

The building is expected to be completed within three months and the agency will move to its new location immediately. Contract for the building was awarded to George Dice, Xenia contractor.

The agency is at present located at 33 Green St. and intends to expand its service.

The new building will have show rooms and offices in the front part with a service department and Duco paint shop for private use in the rear.

EDNA ST VINCENT MILLAY like her even at her worst. Today America is claiming that there can be and is an American opera because at last Miss Millay and Deems Taylor wrote the opera and the Metropolitan Opera Co. sang it and it was a success. Now we are to have a chance to enjoy it for Miss Millay has written the lines so that they sing themselves.

The story tells of a King who sends his faithful and loyal henchman to woo and bring back his bride, of how the henchman falls in love with the maiden, turns traitor to his king for her love, finds her love worthless and to expiate his treachery kills himself.

TWO SUICIDES AND ATTEMPTED MURDER IN DAYTON TUESDAY

DAYTON, June 8.—Two Dayton men are dead and a woman is in a critical condition in St. Elizabeth's Hospital as the result of two suicides and one attempted murder here yesterday.

Angello Joe Freda, 65, died from a self-inflicted bullet wound after he had shot his wife, Catherine Joe Freda, at their home 32 S. Jersey St. James Thompson, 53, former bartender, killed himself at his home 11 College St., to avoid facing an assault and battery charge preferred by his wife.

Thompson's wife said he drove her from home Monday and she asked for a warrant for his arrest yesterday. Police who went to serve the warrant found Thompson hanging from a rafter in the attic. He had been dead eighteen hours. Joe Freda is believed to have been depressed which lead to the attempted murder and suicide. His wife is said to be improving at the hospital.

BIBLE THOUGHT

AFRAID YET TRUSTING:—Be merciful unto me, O God: Mine enemies would daily swallow me up: for they be many that fight against me. What time I am afraid I will trust in thee. Psalm 56:1-3.

SPIRIT OF AMERICA

Twenty years ago an eminent Frenchman visited the United States and met Colonel Roosevelt. Later he said of him: "That man is the concrete expression of the American ideal!"

When out of the skies Charles Lindbergh dropped, into Paris, those "practical idealists" who reluctantly had been listening to lying prophets said to themselves: "Isn't this young man with the face of the morning and the heart of a Viking, the actual expression of the American ideal? His plane carries the title, 'Spirit of St. Louis.' Might it not, with justification, have been christened 'The Spirit of America?'"

That is the vision, as they gazed at the boy, strong, fine and sincere—wholesome as the heart of a clover blossom. And with the recollection of the old triumphs and friendship strong upon them, they opened their arms and accorded him every glory.

France looked upon young Captain Lindbergh and placed a laurel wreath of a Hope.

MAY EXPLAIN MOUNDS

The Mississippi river flood has revealed to archaeologists a new purpose for the mounds which have dotted the Mississippi valley since before the coming of the white man, and even before the advent of the Red Men. Explorations in years past had shown they were not funeral mounds, as are those in Ohio, but since their tops are the only ground above water in the inundated areas it is now believed the ancient builders of them erected them and used them as places of refuge during flood periods. No doubt the rivers in that section have always overflowed their banks, and it may be in remote times past the floods were more frequent and wider spread than now. The inhabitants wanted to use the land for hunting, and the rivers for fishing, so had to devise some place of escape during high water. Each mound is about 150 feet in circumference and fifty feet high, with room on top for approximately 500 persons.

Many Minds
SIGNIFICANT SAYINGS
OF THE DAY

"The government cannot longer take the responsibility in maintaining diplomatic relations (with Russia), which so conducted and so absurd, are not an instrument of peace, but a continued source of irritation and danger."—Sir Arthur Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary.

"Let none mistake the strength of the opposition. Interests opposed to the 18th Amendment are stronger now than when it became law, and they are tenacious in their expansion."—Dr. Howard H. Russell, founder of the Anti-Saloon League.

"We wish to discard the element of force and compulsion in international agreements and conduct and rely on reason and law. While we wish for peace everywhere, it is our desire that it should not be a peace imposed by America, but a peace established by each nation for itself. We want our relationship with other nations based not on a meeting of bayonets, but on a meeting of minds. We want our intercourse with them to rest on justice obligations in accordance with international custom and law."—President Coolidge.

"Unequal distribution of raw materials is one of the principal causes of war. Chemistry, by the synthetic production of raw materials, can prevent such wars. Once the price of rubber is raised, chemists will produce artificial rubber and break the monopoly."—Professor Frank C. Whitmore

"While it remains law, the bishops and clergy will be back of prohibition enforcement—but, though officially dry, and certainly back of law enforcement, the Episcopal Church is actually 90 per cent wet. We Episcopalians are as sober as other people, but the majority of our churchmen have always believed that prohibition is wrong in principle and tends to immorality."—Rev. Dr. James Empringham.

"The sooner the problems of sex become matter of fact, as psychology is now matter of fact, the sooner will sex be relegated to its true importance in life. When physiology was a new science it created the same opposition that now confronts psychology. There was more of the so-called sex obsession in the older generation than there is today. Sex obsession vanishes in proportion as sex is made a matter of fact topic of discussion."—Dr. David Mitchell.

KELLYGRAMS by FRED C. KELLY

WHY BOYS LIKE BAD EGGS

I heard a parent complaining yesterday about the kind of companions that his young son finds congenial.

"If there were 100 boys in the neighborhood from whom to pick out two or three cronies," he said, "my boy would take up with the two or three who are slovenly and slipshod in their traits, both mental and physical. The more low down and ornery they are, the better my boy likes them. Why, oh why, does a well-raised boy always find a kindred spirit in a bad egg?"

Of course one might write a book full of explanations in reply to such a question. Nothing could be more natural than that an average boy should feel comfortable with one whose ethical standards are not any too high. It is said that each individual goes through somewhat the same evolutionary process that a whole race does in passing from barbarism to civilization. We are barbarians at birth with no notions of right or wrong and what is considered right depends on where and when one is born. We gradually acquire inhibitions against doing those things which bring a spanking or other penalty, or which for any reason prove to be inexpedient. But, all the time, we have an inborn desire to cut loose and do just as we please. When we meet another fellow, who not only feels the same way but acts upon such naive impulses, he strikes us as a kindred spirit. He is trying to do what we have always wanted to do.

It is always easier to be comfortable when there is no standard to live up to. If you dwell in a neighborhood where everybody else keeps a hired man to mow the lawn and your lawn always looks ragged because you haven't time or inclination to take care of it, you're a fish out of water. You might be happier among neighbors whose aesthetic standards are no higher than your own.

We all dislike criticism. Hence we are uncomfortable in any place where we might be frowned upon. Nobody likes to wear clothes too glaringly inferior to those of other people about us. Hence men who hate formal evening dress sometimes put on such harness to live up to an arbitrary standard set by others. They might be much happier in overalls, provided their associates were also in overalls. In short, a boy likes to associate with those who don't put too much of a strain on his own behavior. Since it is a natural impulse, we mustn't be too harsh with the boy who takes up with bad eggs.

How to Achieve Beauty

FOOT HABITS

Etiquette books enlarge to quite some degree on the proper manner in which to handle your hands but very seldom say anything about the feet. Mothers are also continually correcting their children about the use and habits of their hands but they do not seem to think it is necessary to say anything about their feet.

Whereas feet as well as hands can be improved greatly in appearance if one knows how to handle them correctly and to cultivate graceful instead of awkward positions.

In these days of abbreviated skirts and consequent feet and leg prominence I personally feel it should be part of the curriculum of every girl's training to know exactly how to handle her feet and legs, cultivating grace in both action and repose.

To achieve grace in sitting the position of the legs is most important, therefore you should practice graceful sitting positions before your mirror.

Place a chair in front of the mirror and when you sit down turn one knee slightly toward the chair, letting that knee take the weight of the body as you sit down. When seated keep one foot slightly in advance of the other so as to achieve a long graceful line from the crown of your head to the point of the toe. In rising let the foot which is farthest back take the weight. You will find this permits you to rise without bending so far forward that you appear ungainly.

After a graceful standing and sitting position the next important step is the "watch your step" or rather your manner of walking. Do you walk with your toes pointing straight ahead or do you toe in or out? Toeing in or out is of course wrong and the latter habit is more prevalent among women than men. If you toe out you should begin at once to try to correct this fault as it will give you no end of trouble if you do not take steps to overcome it. Aside from its effect upon your appearance it causes considerable strain on the arches and is conducive to foot ills in general.

The weight of the body should be supported on the outside rather than the inside of the feet. The toes should really grip the ground to preserve the inner arch and there should be plenty of room for freedom of the toes, otherwise weakened arches will be the result.

Toeing out can be corrected by wearing corrective shoes that are especially designed to overcome this habit. A good exercise to practice to overcome the habit of toeing out is to walk along a chalk line or some definite marked line, toeing to the line until you are gradually able to follow it with straight pointed toes.

The Theatre

With an all-star cast, directed by one of the outstanding men in the profession, Harry Beaumont, and with the outdoor sequences filmed in England, A. S. M. Hutchison's justly famed novel "One Increasing Purpose" will be presented at the Bijou, Wednesday and Thursday.

Unlike that masterpiece of the screen, "What Price Glory," also a Fox production, "One Increasing Purpose" deals not with the great war but with the effect of the war on a group of characters after the signing of the peace treaty. Edmund Lowe who plays male lead, played "Sergeant Quirt" in "What Price Glory?" Others in the cast are Lila Lee, Holmer Herbert, May Allison, Huntley Gordon, Emily Fitzroy, Jane Novak, Josef Swickard, Lawford Davidson and others equally well known for their splendid work.

Einar Hanson, Swedish feature actor of the stage and screen, who was seen last week at the Bijou in "Fashions for Women" with Esther Ralston, died at Santa Monica, Cal., last Friday from injuries sustained when his auto turned over on the coast highway north of Santa Monica. Hanson had been Pola Negri's leading man in the films. He was born in 1899 in Stockholm, went on stage at an early age and came to the United States in 1925. His rise was marked and rapid.

Reproduction of the class play, "The Cricket on the Hearth" was greeted enthusiastically by a large audience that filled the opera house. City Council has decided against the opening up and grading of Orient Ave., a new street.

Mr. Joseph Jones, clerk of Board of Public Service, has invented a new and humane way to kill dogs.

LUDWIG'S ANGINA

Will you please give me some information about the disease known as Ludwig's angina? Is it a common or unusual disease?—A. G.

It can hardly be called a common disease and there are several diseases of the mouth and throat which resemble it. It is always easy to detect and identify it.

It is an important disease, however, and was described by Ludwig in 1836. It is an infection of the tissues of the neck, due to the attacks of germs known as streptococcus and staphylococcus, very common and well known germs and often very destructive in their action.

The death of the Earl of Carnarvon, in Egypt, after the notable discovery of the tomb of Tutankhamen was said to be due to streptococcus infection.

I do not know that the disease was Ludwig's angina, for there are many forms of disease which are attributed to streptococcus infection.

The disease begins as a hard, painful swelling in the tissue of the neck around the lower jaw. The inflammation may be mild for several days and then become very severe, even becoming gangrenous in some of the cases.

The disease is really a rapidly progressing inflammation of the cellular tissue of the neck or cellulitis, and may be associated with tonsillitis, with carious condition of the teeth and with an ulcerated condition of the mouth.

The larynx, wind pipe and lungs are rapidly invaded, there is great prostration of the patient and the difficulty in breathing may be so urgent that tracheotomy must be performed, and with great promptness to prevent suffocation.

Swallowing is also very difficult and painful and consequently the nutrition is quickly interfered with, only liquid nourishment being permissible, and this with great trouble and annoyance. Intense blood-poisoning is one of the marked features of the disease and adds to its seriousness.

Even though tracheotomy be performed, and artificial respiration and inhalation of oxygen are resorted to, death is the unhappy consequence in many of the cases, the swollen tissues of the neck so pressing upon the larynx and wind pipe that respiration becomes impossible.

The formation of abscesses in the inflamed cellular tissue means that incision must be made to remove the accumulated pus. Even if abscess does not form, the incision into the muscles of the neck by relieving tension upon important structures may be sufficient to turn the scale and prevent a fatal consequence.

This incision may also serve to prevent the absorption of poisons and so diminish the chances of general intoxication.

Frequent injections of antistreptococcus serum are a means of treatment, also rectal injections of salt water and if ever there were a disease in which the use of alcohol is urgently indicated, this is one of them.

Thus it will be seen that the only hope of good results in this disease consists in the prompt recognition of the situation and the use of heroic remedies, fearlessly and without delay.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

MRS. V. S. R.: Please tell me what causes the crackling sound in the knees of my seven-month-old baby when her legs are moved. Is it anything serious, and what should be done for it? She is entirely breast-fed.

Answer:—It is nothing serious, and if you will rub the knees every night before putting her to bed, using a little fresh coconut oil, I think you will get rid of it. Do not rub as if you were scrubbing the floor, as a baby's skin is very tender and sensitive. It is rather an unusual condition in a baby, but common enough in adults, and is often due to dryness of the membrane which lines the joint. It needs lubricating.

MAKING MODERN MENUS

ALMOND BALLS FOR SOUP

Three-fourths cup chopped almonds, one egg, salt, a little grated lemon. To the well-beaten yolk of the egg add the almonds, salt and grated lemon, then the stiffly beaten white of the egg. Drop from teaspoon into boiling oil or fat. When golden brown place on paper. Put into soup just before serving.

MARROW BALLS

Two tablespoons marrow fat, two eggs, one-fourth cup matzoth meal, one-half teaspoon salt, a grating of nutmeg. Cream the marrow, add the eggs well beaten, season and add only enough matzoth meal to shape easily into balls, the size of a walnut. Try one in boiling water. If it does not hold together, add more meal. Drop into boiling soup fifteen minutes before serving.

SOUP BALLS

Beat together two eggs, a teaspoon of salt and a speck of pepper. Then add one cup of water and two tablespoons of melted fat. Lastly, add one cup of matzoth flour and let the mixture stand for twenty to thirty minutes. Then drop by spoonfuls into clear soup.

Little Old New York

NEW YORK, June 8.—Officers of a big corporation downtown had observed that the head of the legal department, a brilliant and highly successful man in his middle forties, had been acting somewhat erratically. They thought he was overworked and in need of a rest, and they broached the subject of a vacation to him. He replied that he was fit, and did not need a vacation.

Several things he did later on disturbed them and after various conferences among themselves they went to the man and asked him if he would consent to be consulted by a well-known psychiatrist. He said he would.

An interview was arranged with the doctor and the man who had been acting somewhat strangely talked to the doctor fully and frankly from 8 o'clock in the evening until long past midnight. Toward the end of the consultation the man's mind began to jump from one subject to another without any reason. He was not able, apparently, to keep on any one subject for any length of time.

At the conclusion of the consultation the man asked the doctor what he (the doctor) was going to report to the company.

"Do you want me to speak frankly to you?" asked the doctor.

"Yes, by all means," answered the patient.

"Well, I am going to report back that you are in a very serious condition and it is very dangerous to yourself and to society for you to be at large, unless you are accompanied by a bodyguard at all times. You have paresis. In a moment of irritation you might do very serious harm to someone else or to yourself."

"That is all nonsense, doctor," the man replied. "I may be a little overworked and high-strung; but I am not paretic and I would harm no one."

"Nevertheless that is my verdict on your case," replied the doctor. The company engaged a detective bureau to look up the records of the man's family. It was discovered that the man had a sister in an insane asylum and that some of the other members of his family had been considered somewhat queer.

The company with this information in hand, suggested to the man that they appoint a bodyguard to be with him at all times. The man refused to consent to this, saying that he could not be bothered with the annoyance. The psychiatrist gravely insisted to the company that this was a bad symptom.

The man was relieved by the company of most of his powers as head of the legal department, and he has been circumscribed by an office spy system. He is shunned and eyed queerly.

All this, as any one who knows anything at all about the elements of psychopathology is both tragic and damnable. If the man is paretic and is still able to walk and to talk coherently, he should be put under the immediate care of a physician. His case is in all likelihood curable. As it is, the psychiatrist has turned the man in on himself; and if he is merely erratic now, he will be driven crazy within a short time. He will probably blow his brains out. The psychiatrist, it seems to me, who figured in this case bears watching himself. And it is not very sensible for the company or the man or the doctor to act upon the unverified opinion of one man in so grave a case.

I knew a poet not so long ago who was a parietic in a rather advanced stage. His case followed all of the common symptoms. He had delusions of grandeur; he was excitable and intensely egotistic; he had hallucinations of persecution; he was abnormally brilliant and apparently without fatigue. He was a young man, still in his twenties, and in an outward appearance in good health.

One morning, before dawn, he rapped at the door of a well-known novelist. He was admitted and he was raving tragically. He said he had a high fever and was going to die. The novelist, who had been his friend, had heard all this before. He was accustomed to having the poet disturb his slumbers and to enact a tragic role for a little while and to go away and next day be quite himself again. The novelist thought that the poet was doing this always merely to attract sympathy and in order to be the center of attention for a little while. He was not a well-known poet, and he suffered from the notion that he was a great poet who was neglected.

In short, the novelist did not take him seriously. He was sleepy and thought he was being annoyed unnecessarily. He told the poet there was nothing the matter with him and that he was tired of being annoyed by him at inconvenient hours of the night, and then threw him bodily out of the house.

A couple of hours later a policeman in the park espied a naked man running wildly over the green. The policeman ran after him and caught him. The man was the poet. He had an insane look in his eye. He told the policeman he had just been talking to God and that God had commanded him to take off his clothes and run through the park to stake his fever.

The cop took off his coat and wrapped it around the poet's middle and led him gently to the Park Hotel. He called for the Black Maria and directed the driver to drive to the psychopathic ward of the county jail. There the poet's case was diagnosed as advanced paresis.

A neurologist became interested in the poet's case and undertook to cure him. He took him to his home in the country, subjected him to a rigid medical treatment. He kept him for two years and discharged him cured. The poet is now a healthy looking and entirely sane, normal human being. It is true that he has not written any poetry since before his illness.

Walter Winchell, the dramatic critic of the Evening Graphic, grew greatly peeved at seeing and hearing people in the lobby during the intermissions at first nights at the theater point him out and say, "Oh, look! That's the Bull Montana." Winchell thought at least he looked as pretty as Louis Wolheim. So Winchell tore an Arrow Collar out of a magazine and took it to a silhouette artist and got a silhouette of the Arrow Collar man. This silhouette he has been using as his own portrait in a half column inset in his dramatic column. The result has been that people in the lobbies of the theaters on opening nights have been pointing out Ferdie, head soda-perker at a Broadway Huyler candy shop, who is an inveterate first-nighter, and saying "That's Winchell of the Graphic."

Regain Health this Way

There is a right way to regain health—if you are anemic, weak, nervous and run-down, because of thin, watery blood and deficient gland activity!

The way is easy, pleasant, prompt. It is scientific, for it deals with supplying the elements needed by the system. The method has been used successfully 15 years. The use of Cadomene Tablets has grown to over one million a week by users telling others how effective the method is. There are people in your own circle who have regained lost health. Your doctor or druggist can tell you of the "miracle-like" recoveries of thin, anemic, weak, nervous-run-down folks.

Take from your food all calcium, phosphorus, iron and magnesium—and you wither and die. Reduce the amount your blood and glands should have, and you soon become afflicted with Nerve Trouble, Gland Trouble, Anemia, Weakness, Digestive Disorders, Infected Teeth, Headaches, Lowered Vitality, Fatigue, a tendency to have "colds" frequently and a general lethargy of mind and body.

The "Balance" or level of your system is upset, due to modern methods of preparing foods from which vital elements have been taken. Cadomene gives back this lost balance promptly. Six to eight weeks' use is time enough to produce a delightful buoyancy of spirit and reserve strength. Simply take three to six tablets daily as per directions.

Cadomene Tablets is not a cheap "catch penny tonic," but an efficient enricher of the blood and a potent strength-inducing agent. Go, try it now. Learn that you can be well and strong. Druggists everywhere sell Cadomene on a guarantee of delightful satisfaction or money back.

LIBRARY BRANCHES TO BE ESTABLISHED IN THREE VILLAGES

Establishment of branches of the Greene County District Library in Wilberforce, Yellow Springs and Jamestown, was decided on at a recent meeting of trustees of the library, it is disclosed. The places mentioned have asked for the service, which is in accordance with the policy of the new library plan. Other places which seem likely to be chosen for branch locations are Clinton, Osborn and Spring Valley. These latter places have as yet made no provision for supplying the necessary room and funds for operating a library, however, has appointed a local committee and the question of the type of service will soon be discussed by this committee and Miss Mildred Sandoe, district librarian.

Several other communities are requesting deposit station service. Miss Sandoe is asking that all residents of the county anxious for library service communicate with her. For the benefit of all interested in county library service, Miss Sandoe is giving the following information as to how service will be supplied to rural residents:

In towns of 500 to 1,000, branches will be established. A branch means a permanent collection of books housed adequately and available to the people for several hours each day. For this type of service, local residents must agree to supply the room, necessary equipment and pay expenses of librarians salary, heat, light, etc. The library will in return supply a collection upon opening of 300 to 500 books, will add ten to twelve new books per month, will subscribe to ten to twelve magazines for the branch and will do all clerical work in connection with book preparation.

In smaller communities, there will be deposit station collections placed in some central place, such as a store or post office. These collections will vary from fifty volumes to 100 in size and will be housed in especially built boxes. Books will remain in one community as long as there is a demand. When the residents cease using any particular title, others will be sent to replace it. For this type of service, the local people must agree to bear the expenses of the local custodian. These will be slight. Miss Sandoe explains, and the county library will do all else.

For the schools specially prepared collections will be made up and sent out for three months periods. Teachers will be in charge of these collections. The county library will bear all expenses for this type of service.

In these three ways, it is hoped to give book service to all residents of the county desiring it. Miss Sandoe is anxious that the service be in operation by fall.

FORMER XENIAN IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Mrs. Lula Mackrodt, widow of Charles Mackrodt, former lieutenant of police on the Pennsylvania Railroad, died at the home of her brother in Dayton, Ky., Tuesday at 6:40 a. m. It has been learned here. She had been ill some time, and pneumonia is thought to have hastened her death.

The Mackrodt family formerly resided on Cincinnati Ave., and after the death of her husband, Mrs. Mackrodt left Xenia, almost two years ago. She is survived by one daughter, Helen Mackrodt.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2:30 o'clock, in Willowview Cemetery, Dayton, with interment there.

COLLEGE'S ANNUAL WATER CARNIVAL IS HELD ON WEDNESDAY

Third annual water carnival of the "B" division of Antioch College will be held at Grinnell's Park, two miles south of Yellow Springs. Wednesday afternoon, beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

A fair percentage of the college students of the division have handed in their entries for the various events despite the cool weather of the past few days, and heated competition is expected for the two silver loving cups offered by M. R. Grinnell for the greatest number of individual points made in the women's and men's events.

The aquatic meet will take place just south of the dam and will be under the direct supervision of Robert Rope, college student.

Special events will include boys' and girls' row boat races, a duck catch, with the duck for a prize, an exhibition of Chinese life-saving and a stunt called "Monta Cristo."

Events for girls are: 25 and 50-yard free style swim; 25-yard back stroke; 25-yard breast stroke, 100-yard four girl relay race, egg race and sparker race.

Events for men are: 25, 50, 100 and 200-yard free style; 200-yard four men relay; 50-yard breast stroke; 50-yard back stroke, fancy diving and a novelty race in which contestants push a three-foot board.

HOME BATTALION IS INSPECTED; MAY BE NAMED AS R. O. T. C.

Lieut. Col. Harris, Fort Hayes, Col., personally conducted a federal inspection of the R. O. S. and S. O. Home Battalion Tuesday, preparatory to its probable recognition as a Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps and establishment of a military training school at the institution.

The officer will make a report of the inspection to the war department and the Home will be advised shortly of the department's decision. The inspection officer did not indicate whether the battalion had successfully qualified.

The inspection dealt mainly with what physical facilities the institution, its class rooms and armory, present for location of a training school here.

To qualify as a R. O. T. C. unit, a college or an institution such as the Home must have an enrollment of at least 100 boys, fourteen or more years of age.

Such educational institutions as Ohio State University are classed as senior R. O. T. C. units.

Establishment of a training school at the Home will mean the war department will provide an instructor in army tactics and additional military equipment.

BRIEL WILL HEAD MASONIC COUNCIL

Charles Briel was elected third illustrious master of Wright Council, No. 96, Royal and Select Masters, succeeding Holmes Norris, at the annual election of officers at the Masonic Temple Monday night.

Other new officers chosen include: William Maxwell, deputy illustrious master; A. J. Taylor, principal conductor of the work; Watkins Frame, treasurer; J. H. Whitman, recorder; A. J. Wilson, captain of the guard; H. S. Buckwalter, conductor of council; J. W. Gardner, Sr., steward, and E. L. Kinzer, sentinel.

The two other lodge bodies do not hold their annual election of officers until next fall.

PETITIONS MUST BE FILED BEFORE JULY 10 TO SEEK OFFICES

R. E. Dunkel, elections board clerk, announces that July 8 instead of June 8 is the final date on which candidates for the two prospective vacancies on the city commission may file petitions of candidacy, subject to the August 9 primary.

Candidates may take out their papers to be filled in with the required number of signatures, at any time. All petitions for city commission must be on file by July 10.

Unless more than four candidates for commission file, or more than twice the number of vacancies to be created, no primary election will be held, but candidates will fight it out at the regular election November 8.

Other petitions of candidacy for the regular November election must be filed by September 9. The municipal election this year will include vacancies on the city commission, city school board, county school board, justices of the peace, village officers, township trustees and all township school boards. Only candidates to city commission are subject to a possible August primary.

HEADS SCHOOL

Henry G. Williams has been named by the board of Wilmington College to direct its summer school sessions this year, the resignation of President J. Edwin Jay, becoming effective at the close of the winter term. Dr. Williams takes the chair this week, graduation at the school being calendared for June 8.

ACCUSED OF THEFT OF PLANE—SUES

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 8.—Julius Bolanz, of this city, has filed suit in Common Pleas Court here against William Castle, alleging that he was falsely arrested on a charge of stealing an airplane, November, 28, last. He asks $5,000 damages.

Bolanz, it is alleged, drove the plane from Youngstown to Akron and then back to Youngstown. He was arrested on charges preferred by Castle, for driving a motor vehicle without the owner's consent. In December he was acquitted of the charge when given a hearing before Justice W. A. Fisher.

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

The Rovin' Ritzies

By Flo Frederick

Bill takes 'em slow. And knocks 'em for a row!

Although there were over a dozen boys gathered in the Collins back yard, there was very little noise or commotion to be heard. They had settled down to the serious business of winning the Ritzie marble tournament and each boy was intent upon his play.

There were only sixteen boys entered in the tournament, and their names were chalked up on the big score board that Marty had erected. Two boys had been elected to official positions, one to act as referee and the other as scorer.

Marty and the twins were enlisted in the tournament and though they had worked out the rules for Old Juke, which was to be the tournament game, they felt little assured that any of them would win. Perhaps it would be better if they didn't, for the winner was to play the best man of Max Mason's crowd, wearing the Ritzie colors, and this was the game that had to be won at all cost of personal pride. The Ritzie colors simply couldn't go down to defeat.

For Max and his gang, and if someone else could play a better game, and beat Max's sharpshooter, they wouldn't feel sorry about seeing the fight passing into other hands.

The Ritzies hadn't quite decided what they would do if this should happen. Should they take the winner into the club, or just give him special club privileges? Oh, well, this was something that would be worked out later on, and anyway one of the three might win the tournament and thereby eliminate all difficulties.

All sixteen boys plunged into the tournament with a will. Whether it was winning the beautiful badges that Patsy had made that surd them on or the fact that the winner was to wear the Ritzie colors and play Max's best man is not known, but never did boys take more careful aim than in that tournament game of Old Juke.

Of course they had had a trial play on the star, and so they didn't make the many mistakes that they did the first time they tried this new game of the Ritzies. Occasionally someone forgot to shoot the marble nearest him and of course this caused a shout of glee among the contestants, for it not only caused him to lose his turn but gave an additional point to his opponent.

The tournament was played off in twos, the loser to be eliminated from the game and the winner going on target, finger his shooter and finally to play the winner of his slow aim.

Bill had been so intent upon the game that he hardly realized what had happened until he was whirled aloft on the shoulders of the boys and carried around the yard amid loud cheering. This only abated a moment while Patsy pinned the first marble badge on his coat and then it started in all over again louder than ever.

"Here's to Bill, the Ritzie marble champ! Three cheers for good old Bill!"

"How much are you going to charge for lessons?"

"Bill may take 'em slow, but he knocks 'em for a row!"

These shouts of praise and fun were cut short by a summons from Marty.

"The Ritzies request the presence of Bill Roscoe in the Ritzie club room," he said, pointing towards the carpenter shop.

As the boys released Bill, and watched him join Marty and the twins in the carpenter shop, they followed him with jealous eyes. He had earned the honor well enough, but how they wished they were in the Ritzie club as he no doubt would be.

Read what the Ritzies decide to do with Bill in tomorrow's story.

WOLFORD WORKS ON FLOOD PREVENTION

J. J. Wolford, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Wolford, Hoop Road, received his master's degree in geology from Ohio State University June 6.

This date is slightly in advance of the regular spring commencement but special arrangements were made for Wolford, due to his having been employed by the U. S. Engineer Corps for geologic work relative to the construction of power and flood-prevention dams along the Tennessee River.

Wolford stopped over on his way to Tennessee for a short visit with his parents and to be present at his sister's high school commencement.

RAIN MAKES WEEDS IN ONION CROPS

KENTON, O., June 8.—School boys in this section are praying that the rain will stop.

Onion crops in the marsh sections near here will soon be lost in the weeds if the rain continues and boys will have the back-breaking job of pulling them out as soon as school lets out this month.

Farm hands who annually migrate to this section from Kentucky will also be given plenty of work in the onion field pulling out the weeds from all indications.

JAMESTOWN

Quite a number of the members of the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Presbyterian Church met with Mrs. Roscoe Turner, Friday afternoon for their June meeting. Mrs. L. L. Gray presided and also led the devotions. The topic, "Moslem Women," was taken from the last chapter of the mission study book. Mrs. R. C. Turnbull and Mrs. Fred Nelson had a part in the program. Miss Mattie Williams added to the interest of the meeting with a talk on Egypt. Miss Catherine, daughter of Mrs. R. L. Dean, gave a talk portraying the beauties of the flowers of the Bible. During the social hour, the hostess served ices, cake and coffee.

Miss Frances Reeves has returned from the Ohio University at Athens, where she took a year's course in the normal department for the training of teachers, as that will be her vocation.

Mr. Charles W. Sharp spent the week-end in Columbus with Mrs. and Mrs. J. Q. Adams.

Clear, White, Smooth Hands Are Beautiful

Manicuring alone can not make the hands beautiful. The skin itself must be soft, firm, white, and youthful. The easiest way to do this is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, and massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach daily into the hands and arms. It will make even stained, toll-worn hands soft, clear, smooth and white.

"ONE INCREASING PURPOSE"
The Mightiest Novel by A. S. M. Hutchinson.
Author of "It Winter Comes."

With Edmund Lowe, Lila Lee, Huntley Gordon, May Allison, Jane Novak

All the drama, all the suspense and all of the absorbing interest that made A. S. M. Hutchinson's greatest novel of such appeal to all types of people, have been retained in the picture. More—a cast of stars have brought the author's characters to life in the very locale in which he pictured them.

The picture surpasses the book.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED—

The entrance of America into the World War finds Philip Wayne Tracy IV, entering from the college of his first passionate love affair. Before this, he and Natalie Jones had had a childish engagement.

Rod and Phil are the first to enlist. Natalie nearly breaks Rod's heart by ignoring him entirely at the depot where she has gone to see the boys off, so great was her anxiety to see Phil.

Mrs. Tracy sends Phil a letter of introduction to Maria Tennis, the daughter of an old friend, who lives near the training camp to which Phil had been sent.

Here he meets Gladys, a girl of the streets, to whom, on an impulse of pity Phil proposes marriage. The girl, for Phil's good, refuses and he then insists on giving her a thousand dollars with which to start life anew.

Phil's regiment is ordered back to New York, presumably bound for France. In New York he meets Natalie, and his love for her flames afresh. They plan to be married but the immediate departure of Phil's regiment prevents this.

After a miserable voyage Phil finds himself in France, and there makes friends of a peasant woman who is kind to him. Shortly they are ordered to the front, and Phil writes loving letters home.

Here the story further unfolds—

CHAPTER XXXVI UP TO THE FRONT

AT 1 o'clock that night, almost 24 hours before they had expected to leave, the regiment was piled into box cars.

After much jolting, starting and stopping the funny little French engine decided that getting these care-free Americans up to the front was really worth the effort, and so started sluggishly off.

Half the town was there to bid them "bonne chance" and God-speed.

Phil could not help but notice the total absence of young men. There were old women and young women, old men and children—but the poignant tragedy was that except for the wrecks still in their army uniforms, there was not a Frenchman on the platform between the ages of eighteen and forty.

He looked about at these Americans who were starting out so early for this unknown adventure. How many of them would soon go back to their little home towns in America, crippled and maimed, and would be waving good luck to those who were taking their places.

Finally, a little before daylight, the train stopped and the regiment detrained.

They marched on.

Phil felt that they were now getting near, for all the while in the distance someone seemed to be having a huge Fourth-of-July celebration and the firecrackers were popping.

All at once the whole regiment was fairly snatched to its toes.

"That's it—there she is, boys—that's what we enlisted for."

"That's why we're here, and we'll give 'em hell."

Shortly a glow of red, down by the horizon, grew brighter and touched with a glow of light, a way-side shrine—throwing into relief the body of a French soldier lying with his face upturned to the Christ on the cross above him.

"The one who gets the lady stays here."

the whole regiment of marching men.

Then from out the blue a noise like that of ten giant sirens cut the ether. "Everybody down!" someone shouted.

At the same moment the shriek of the sirens ended with a boom, as though hundreds of pounds of dynamite had exploded, throwing the dirt high in the air and showering the whole company.

A piece of hard earth clanged on his steel helmet, and Phillip realized that as usual he had disobeyed orders and stood stock still in the middle of the road, trying to explain to himself what was going on.

It was not fright, he concluded, when he thought of it afterward—it was just that he had not known what it was. It had all come so fast that he had not gotten the command while he was trying to place the sound of his first shell.

He came to himself calling, "Rod, Rod!" His only fear was that something had happened to his friend. His heart beat more calmly when he saw Rod rushing toward him.

"Everything's Jake with me, old man," he assured him. "And you?"

"Same here, Phil."

"Company, fall in! Forward!" They marched on.

Although Phil thought he had not only sampled, but exhausted all the smells that could assail his nostrils, he knew before he had spent one night at the front that there was no smell so terrible as that of disintegrated bodies. He also learned there was no noise so terrific as the noise at the front when a barrage was on.

Phil and Rod were immediately ordered to report to the Intelligence Department. There had been desultory fighting back and forth across the river all day, and Rod and Phil in headquarters company, were kept busy laying lines from the batteries to their headquarters and their outposts, and repairing them when the boche shells had cut the wires.

Every day there were rumors of the mobilization of the Germans at this sector with a last "do or die" and get to Paris" push.

And then one morning Phil awakened from his two-hour sleep, his ears pounding. He rolled out of his blanket and rushed to the cellar where the telephone station had been installed. Lieutenant Andrews was there before him. "It's come, Tracy," he said. "We're in it now, and God have mercy on their souls."

Phil did not realize that he could like anyone as well as he liked Lieutenant Andrews at that moment. He seemed human. He seemed friendly.

Pains That Never Came

Here's glorious news for long-suffering womankind! To every woman who periodically has suffered pain. Menstruation need no longer be painful. And it is science that is speaking!

Specialists have developed a tiny tablet called Midol. It's a simple thing, utterly harmless to a girl of fourteen, but it brings relief in five to seven minutes. And is effective twelve hours or longer!

Midol is NOT a narcotic. It has no effect whatever on heart or nervous system. It acts directly on those organs affected by menstruation. They function normally, as they should, but the pain is banished. Complete relief—yes, perfect comfort—follows Midol.

Your druggist has Midol for 50 cents, in a slim aluminum box to tuck in your purse.

CARROLL BEGINS PRISON TERM

PRODUCER IS TAKEN TO ATLANTA AFTER HOSPITAL SESSION

Attorney General Says
Nothing The Matter
With Prisoner

ATLANTA, June 8.—Earl Carroll, New York theatrical producer, arrived here early today to start serving his sentence of a year and a day, imposed following his conviction on charges of perjury.

Carroll was accompanied by Henry Cunningham, United States deputy marshal of New York, who has guarded the convicted man since he became ill in Greenville, S. C.

Carroll and his guard left Greenville at 1:25 a. m., arriving at the terminal station here at 5:25. The theater man was taken to the federal prison at once. Warden John W. Snook was on hand to greet him.

Carroll's removal to Atlanta followed Attorney General Sargent's refusal to take any action on his behalf, claiming that physicians who examined him in the Greenville City Hospital had stated "there was nothing the matter with him."

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Earl Carroll, New York theatrical producer, is to begin his sentence of a year and a day in Atlanta prison at once.

Fast on the heels of Attorney General Sargent's decision that "there is nothing the matter" with Carroll, the producer was placed aboard an Atlanta-bound train at Greenville, S. C. early this morning and started on the road to prison.

Carroll collapsed while enroute to the prison six weeks ago and was removed from the train at Greenville where he supposedly lay in a "coma" for some days. Last week the department of justice sent two physicians to Greenville to examine him. It was apparently on their report that Sargent directed the producer to be removed to the prison.

Carroll will get no credit for the time spent in Greenville. His sentence begins from the time he enters the prison.

REPORT 2,600 DEAD FOLLOWING BATTLE FOR CHINESE CITY

Nationalists Capture Hanchung—Air At- tacks Deadly

SHANGHAI, June 8.—After a 26-hour battle in which 2,600 men were killed and wounded, (according to a Nationalist communiqué), Nationalist troops captured Hanchung, the northern defenders retreating towards Linching, said advice received here today. The battle ended Tuesday.

Airplanes attached to the Nationalist army participated, bombing railway stations and troop positions. The Nationalist communiqué said that the air attacks demoralized the Shantungites.

Large numbers of wounded are arriving at Hankow daily from Hanchung, indicating that severe fighting continues in that region. The hospital situation at Hankow is critical due to the intense heat and the lack of facilities to treat the wounded who was estimated at 12,000.

Gen. Chiang Kai Shek's influence is spreading in Kiangsi. Many Kuomintang have joined Chiang's army.

FIRE DESTROYS OIL TANKS AT LORAIN

LORAIN, June 8.—Five large tanks containing oil and gasoline, owned by the Rogers Oil Company of Lorain, were destroyed by fire, believed to have started from the spark of a cap pistol, fired by a boy, playing near a truck which was taking a supply of gasoline. Loss was estimated at $10,000. Carlyn Rogers, 20, son of the owner of the plant, was burned about the face and hands when he attempted to shut off a pump.

DENISON, Ia., June 8.—A tall, spare, white-haired man beamed through horn-rimmed glasses at a motherly, gray-haired woman, and with his right arm thrown affectionately across her shoulders, said:

"Maw, the boy came through." Mrs. E. C. Chamberlin smiled back at him and said, with a touch of playful asperity:

"Come through? Of course he came through." Whatever uneasiness Clarence Chamberlin's parents may have felt—and it would hardly be nat-

THE BOY IS FATHER OF THE MAN

Neighbors of Clarence Chamberlin, in Denison, Ia., who remember the flier as a small boy and as a youth in his teens, were recalling that he exhibited in his younger days all the traits which made him in later years capable of a successful trans-Atlantic flight.

He was, they said, a "nut" about machinery, especially automobile engines.

He owned the first motorcycle in Denison.

He was fond of hunting alone or with one other companion.

One of his favorite tricks was to "spin" his stripped down Ford car on the slippery streets in winter time.

Also, but this has nothing to do with it, he used to tease the girls. There was little sentimentality in his make-up.

For them to maintain an entirely composed aspect in view of the fact that their only son was facing the perils of 3,000 miles of the treacherous North Atlantic, they never lost confidence in him, agreed as to his mechanical genius, but some of the older folks still think that there is a streak of

"The boy is a mechanical genius," the elder Chamberlin told me. "He isn't reckless, although he's full of courage. No contingency which he might expect to meet would be left unprovided for. It was sure he would succeed."

Always a Mechanic

Denison, Clarence Chamberlin's home town, where he played as a boy, and from which he went to flying school when automobiles became too dull, and the urge to try aviation seized hold of him, is agreed as to his mechanical genius, but some of the older folks still think that there is a streak of Thousands gathered along the route of the funeral procession to pay their tribute.

Government business has been suspended.

PUBLIC SCHOOL PRESERVER OF DEMOCRACY GRADUATES TOLD

Edmund Vance Cooke Advises Seventy-Four Central High Seniors When They Receive Diplomas From Superintendent

Using poetry to tell truths about life and nature in an adequate and beautiful way, Edmund Vance Cooke, Cleveland, O., author and lecturer, spoke on "1900 and Now," at the sixty-eighth annual commencement of Central High School Tuesday night at the First M. E. Church when seventy-four graduates, the third largest class in the school's history, were awarded diplomas.

A capacity crowd filled the church to overflowing.

The lecturer used original poems, some familiar, and others composed for the occasion, to give language to universal emotions, and to interpret life in general and touch on arduous work ahead.

"Alexander," the speaker said, "because he conquered the ancient world; and Napoleon, because he conquered the modern world, alone have a claim in history to be called truly great, but the test of true greatness today, is the way we meet the eternal every day. Be a lord of faith and a servant of truth."

"The public school is the preserver of democracy and the future is in the hands of you graduates rather than in our hands. It is yours to finish the problems that confront this generation and which will eventually confront you. Why shouldn't we expect a solution from you? Where else shall we look for individual leadership than among those in whom instruction has been

Mr. Cooke complimented the mother as the patron saint of the home and characterized the father as a true philosopher of deeds rather than words.

"The motor car," he asserted, "has become the emblem of achievement of 1900 and Now." Henry Ford has become the greatest man since Shakespeare. Both created new languages.

"It has been truly said that society owes a debt of gratitude to the man who made two blades of grass grow where one grew before but what shall we say of the man

CHAMBERLIN AND HIS COMPANION ROYALLY GREETED BY GERMANS

Vast Crowds Delay Trip To President's Mansion—
Many Entertainments Planned For
Americans In Berlin

BERLIN, June 8.—Clarence D. Chamberlin and his flying companion, Charles A. Levine, who made a non-stop flight of 4,000 miles from New York to Germany, were received today by President Von Hindenburg, of the German republic, at the presidential mansion.

Although the journey from the American embassy to the presidential palace is but a three minute drive, the crowds made it impossible for the fliers to make much progress in Ambassador Schurman's car.

The police held back huge throngs who insisted upon getting as close as possible to the aviators and shouting their throaty "hochs."

At the entrance to the presidential palace there was a crowd of 3,000 and at the approach of the two Americans they broke through the lines holding up the ambassador's car for several minutes.

Two steel-helmeted Reichwehr soldiers, standing on guard at the entrance to the palace, snapped to attention and saluted as Chamberlin, laughing and smiling, acknowledged all the greetings while Levine looked straight ahead, apparently somewhat embarrassed by the demonstration.

President Hindenburg, with Secretary Meisner, was awaiting the guests just inside the palace doors and greeted them cordially as Ambassador Schurman introduced them. The president extended his felicitations to the fliers and lauded their achievement.

The two fliers were probably the most informally dressed persons ever received in presidential audience in Germany. Levine wore a striped business suit and Chamberlin was attired in a flying jacket and plus-fours, the same garb he had worn across the Atlantic.

President Hindenburg gave each of the fliers his autographed photograph, in a silver frame.

Tonight Ambassador Schurman will give a formal dinner at the embassy in honor of the airmen.

Chancellor Marx and other prominent Germans have been invited. Foreign Secretary Stresemann is expected to entertain the Americans at a formal breakfast tomorrow morning and on Friday they will be the guests of the city of Berlin at a reception at the city hall.

Honorary entertainments piled up so fast that there is danger of a conflict in dates. The American Club planned a dinner and dance for the visitors at the Adlon Hotel Friday night. Herr Wilhelm Koch, minister of transport in the Marx cabinet, sent out invitations for a dinner in their honor for the same evening. If both functions are held the Americans will divide their time between the two affairs.

Officials of the Lufthansa Company Germany's great commercial air transport enterprise—will entertain the fliers at a dinner Saturday evening.

In between these numerous honorary social events the Americans will be sightseeing. Both expressed a desire to visit Potsdam and see the palace of the former kaiser.

In addition to the numerous congratulatory messages gifts of all kinds are being received at the embassy. The printed report that both Chamberlin and Levine had expressed a preference for Pilsner beer led to numerous gifts of this beverage. It is evident that the Americans will not be thirsty during their visit to Germany. The high interest of the German people in the flight and the men who made it was evidenced by the crowds which gathered close to the American embassy and which struggled to get a view of the Americans when they went abroad in the streets. They were cheered wherever they went.

"It was certainly a great reception," said Levine referring to the arrival of the Columbia at Tempelhof flying field last yesterday afternoon when 150,000 persons roared themselves hoarse with "hochs" and shouts of welcome. It was a sincere and wholehearted welcome and the Americans told

MAY FLY BACK
BERLIN, June 8.—"Our plans have not been determined," said Clarence Chamberlin today, when asked concerning reports that he and Charles A. Levine would fly back to New York in their Bellanca plane. "I would like to fly back to America," was Levine's comment.

embassy in honor of the airmen. Chancellor Marx and other prominent Germans have been invited. Foreign Secretary Stresemann is expected to entertain the Americans at a formal breakfast tomorrow morning and on Friday they will be the guests of the city of Berlin at a reception at the city hall.

Honorary entertainments piled up so fast that there is danger of a conflict in dates. The American Club planned a dinner and dance for the visitors at the Adlon Hotel Friday night. Herr Wilhelm Koch, minister of transport in the Marx cabinet, sent out invitations for a dinner in their honor for the same evening. If both functions are held the Americans will divide their time between the two affairs.

WILE SAYS:

China Situation
Evacuation Looms
Japs Watchful
Goodbye Peking

By FREDERIC WILLIAM WILE
Exclusive Dispatch, Copyright 1927

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Announcement by President Coolidge that the United States, in common with other powers, has in "general contemplation" the transfer of legation activities to Tientsin is fraught with implications of far-reaching importance. On its face, the announcement indicates that the powers fear that Peking, as a stronghold of the old China, is doomed, and that Nationalist China sooner or later is destined to wield power there in its stead. Undoubtedly the United States and other foreign governments would only resume diplomatic occupation in Peking as the capital of the new, or Nationalist China.

If the Nationalists should set up their seat of government elsewhere, the powers naturally would be governed accordingly. But it is regarded a foregone conclusion that Peking, for many reasons, is to become the Nationalist headquarters. The tomb of Sun Yat Sen, who has been canonized as the Lenin of the Chinese movement, is in Peking. The Nationalist pioneer having died in the Rockefeller hospital at the old capital in 1925. That sentimental circumstance, it is believed, will induce the Nationalists to make the city their political citadel.

The tragic memories of the Boxer rebellion in 1900 are mainly the considerations which have led the Washington and other governments to think of evacuating Peking. Two separate expeditions were required 27 years ago this summer to bring about the relief of the beleaguered legations there. Between 15,000 and 20,000 allied soldiers and sailors had to be mobilized before Peking could be reached. For the better part of a month, beginning with the bombardment of allied warships by the Taku forts and including hard fighting around Tientsin and on the march

EDNA ST VINCENT MILLAY

Edna St. Vincent Millay is a joy to me because I am always uncertain when I pick up a new piece of her work, what mood I'll find her in this time. There is no more versatile writer or one more a creature of moods than this author. Some of her lyrics show the most exquisite sense of beauty and imagination, an exaltation of feeling and a tenderness that surprised the reader when suddenly coming across a bit of verse as cynical and flamboyant as some bits are. However, I

TWO SUICIDES AND ATTEMPTED MURDER IN DAYTON TUESDAY

DAYTON, June 8.—Two Dayton men are dead and a woman is in a critical condition in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, as the result of two suicides and one attempted murder here yesterday.

Angelo Joeferda, 65, died from a self-inflicted bullet wound after he had shot his wife, Catherine Joeferda, at their home 32 S. Jersey St. James Thompson, 53, former bartender, killed himself at his home 11 College St., to avoid facing an assault and battery charge preferred by his wife.

Thompson's wife said he drove her from home Monday and she asked for a warrant for his arrest yesterday. Police who went to serve the warrant found Thompson hanging from a rafter in the attic. He had been dead eight hours. Joeferda is believed to have been depressed which led to the attempted murder and suicide. His wife is said to be improving at the hospital.

Rev. A. W. Webster, of Omaha, Neb., who is returning from the United Presbyterian General Assembly at Washington, D. C. spent Monday with his uncle, Rev. J. G. C. Webster and family.

FLYERS IN BERLIN WITHOUT BAGGAGE

BERLIN, June 8.—Charles D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine, the trans-Atlantic flyers, were in a predicament today owing to the fact that they had no baggage when they arrived in Berlin.

"I have nothing except what is on my back," Chamberlin told International News Service. "I guess I ought to go shopping but it is likely I will not have time. I will have to go to the banquet tonight just as I am."

As he spoke Chamberlin was dressed in his aviator's jacket and trousers.

CLIFTON

Mrs. Elder Corry entertained the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid last Thursday at her home on the Cedarville Pike.

Mr. Thane Young and family motored to see his brother who lives near Cincinnati, last Sunday.

Mrs. Louise Wheeler, who has spent some time with her brother, Holton, who has been a fugitive from justice since June 16, 1926, is said to have served three years in the Stillwater, Minn., penitentiary.

He will be arraigned before Probate Judge S. C. Wright Wednesday, but authorities have not indicated whether he will also be charged with resisting the officers.

The officers discovered Holton hidden behind a box in a rear shed. When Holton threatened them with a club Barr exploded a tear

LIBRARY BRANCHES TO BE ESTABLISHED IN THREE VILLAGES

Establishment of branches of the Greene County District Library in Wilberforce, Yellow Springs and Jamestown, was decided on at a recent meeting of trustees of the library, it is disclosed. The places mentioned have asked for the service, which is in accordance with the policy of the new library plan.

Other places which seem likely to be chosen for branch locations are Clifton, Osborn and Spring Valley. These latter places have as yet made no provision for supplying the necessary room and funds for operating. Clifton, however, has appointed a local committee and the question of the type of service will soon be discussed by this committee and Miss Mildred Sandoe, district librarian.

Several other communities are requesting deposit station service. Miss Sandoe is asking that all residents of the county anxious for library service communicate with her.

For the benefit of all interested in county library service, Miss Sandoe, is giving the following information as to how service will be supplied to rural residents:

In towns of 500 to 1,000, branches will be established. A branch means a permanent collection of books housed adequately and available to the people for several hours each day. For this type of service, local residents must agree to supply the room, necessary equipment and pay, light, etc. of librarians salary, heat, light, etc. The library will in return supply a collection upon opening of 300 to 500 books, will add ten to twelve new books per month, will subscribe to ten to twelve magazines for the branch and will do all clerical work in connection with book preparation.

In smaller communities, there will be deposit station collections placed in some central place, such as a store or post office. These collections will vary from thirty volumes to 100 in size and will be housed in especially built boxes. Books will remain in one community as long as there is a demand. When the residents cease using any particular title, others will be sent to replace it. For this type of service, the local people must agree to bear the expenses of the local custodian. These will be slight. Miss Sandoe explains, and the county library will do all else.

For the schools, specially prepared collections will be made up and sent out for three month periods. Teachers will be in charge of these collections. The county library will bear all expenses for this type of service.

In these three ways, it is hoped to give book service to all residents of the county desiring it. Miss Sandoe is anxious that the service be in operation by fall.

FORMER XENIAN IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Mrs. Lula Mackrodt, widow of Charles Mackrodt, former lieutenant of police on the Pennsylvania Railroad, died at the home of her brother in Dayton, Ky., Tuesday at 6:40 a. m. It has been learned here. She had been ill some time, and pneumonia is thought to have hastened her death.

The Mackrodt family formerly resided on Cincinnati Ave., and after the death of her husband, Mrs. Mackrodt left Xenia, almost two years ago. She is survived by one daughter, Helen Mackrodt.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2:30 o'clock, in Willowview Cemetery, Dayton, with interment there.

COLLEGE'S ANNUAL WATER CARNIVAL IS HELD ON WEDNESDAY

Third annual water carnival of the "B" division of Antioch College will be held at Grinnell's Park, two miles south of Yellow Springs, Wednesday afternoon, beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

A fair percentage of the college students of the division have handed in their entries for the various events despite the cool weather of the past few days, and heated competition is expected for the two silver loving cups offered by Mr. R. Grinnell for the greatest number of individual points made in the women's and men's events.

The aquatic meet will take place just south of the dam and will be under the direct supervision of Robert Rope, college student.

Special events will include boys' and girls' row boat races, a duck catch, with the duck for a prize, an exhibition of Chinese life-saving and a stunt called "Monta Cretia."

Events for girls are: 25 and 50-yard free style swim; 25-yard back stroke; 25-yard breast stroke, 100-yard four girl relay race, egg race and sparker race.

Events for men are: 25, 50, 100 and 200-yard free style; 200-yard four men relay; 50-yard breast stroke; 50-yard back stroke, freestyle diving, and a novelty race in which contestants push a three-foot board.

HOME BATTALION IS INSPECTED; MAY BE NAMED AS R. O. T. C.

Lieut. Col. Harris, Fort Hayes, Col., personally conducted a federal inspection of the O. S. and S. O. Home battalion Tuesday, preparatory to its probable recognition as a junior Reserve Officer Train Corps and establishment of a military training school at the institution.

The officer will make a report of the inspection to the war department and the Home will be advised shortly of the department's decision. The inspection officer did not indicate whether the battalion had successfully qualified.

The inspection dealt mainly with what physical facilities the institution, its class rooms and armory, present for location of a training school here.

To qualify as a R. O. T. C. unit, a college or an institution such as the Home must have an enrollment of at least 100 boys, fourteen or more years of age.

Such educational institutions as Ohio State University are classed as senior R. O. T. C. units.

Establishment of a training school at the Home will mean the war department will provide an instructor in army tactics and additional military equipment.

BREIEL WILL HEAD MASONIC COUNCIL

Charles Breiel was elected thrice illustrious master of Wright Council, No. 96, Royal and Select Masters, succeeding Holmes Norris, at the annual election of officers at the Masonic Temple Monday night.

Other new officers chosen, include: William Maxwell, deputy illustrious master; A. J. Taylor, principal conductor of the work; Watkins Frame, treasurer; J. H. Whitmer, recorder; A. J. Wilson, captain of the guard; H. S. Buckwalter, conductor of council; J. W. Gardner, Sr., steward; and E. L. Kinzer, sentinel.

The two other lodge bodies do not hold their annual election of officers until next fall.

PETITIONS MUST BE FILED BEFORE JULY 10 TO SEEK OFFICES

R. E. Dunkel, elections board clerk, announces that July 8 instead of June 8 is the final date on which candidates for the two prospective vacancies on the city commission may file petitions of candidacy, subject to the August 9 primary.

Candidates may take out their papers to be filled in with the required number of signatures, at any time. All petitions for city commission must be on file by July 10.

Unless more than four candidates for commission file, or more than twice the number of vacancies to be created, no primary election will be held, but candidates will fight it out at the regular election November 8.

Other petitions of candidacy for the regular November election must be filed by September 9. The municipal election this year will include vacancies on the city commission, city school board, county school board, justices of the peace, village officers, township trustees and all township school boards. Only candidates to City commission are subject to a possible August primary.

JUVENILES AWAIT ARRIVAL OF FIRST CIRCUS OF SEASON

Xenia's juvenile population, not to speak of the "grown ups," are eagerly counting the days before the arrival of Christy Brothers five-ring animal shows, "positively the greatest show on earth," Saturday, June 18 for a matinee and evening performance, to be preceded by a street parade in the morning at 11 o'clock.

Christy Brothers is one of the newer wild animal shows and boasts an assembly of 500 animal actors.

The show offers a novelty in the historic Biblical spectacle, "Noah and the Ark." There are nearly 500 characters in the cast, a ballet of more than half a hundred and a singing chorus of 100 voices. The incidental music is rendered by a 100-piece band.

Costumes of ancient type, massive scenery and decorative ornaments are factors in making impressive the spectacle.

Christy Brothers will give two performances in Xenia, at 2 p. m. and at 8 p. m., with the doors opening one hour in advance.

ACCUSED OF THEFT OF PLANE—SUES

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 8.—Julius Bolanz, of this city, has filed suit in Common Pleas Court here against William Castle, alleging that he was falsely arrested on a charge of stealing an airplane, November, 28, last. He asks $5,000 damages.

Bolanz, it is alleged, drove the plane from Youngstown to Akron and then back to Youngstown. He was arrested on charges preferred by Castle, for driving a motor vehicle without the owner's consent. In December he was acquitted of the charge when given a hearing before Justice W. A. Fisher.

No—Mother Candy need not harm their teeth

Sweets, in fermenting, form acids between the teeth and in crevices. So does starch, which turns to sweets. Aids attacks both the teeth and the gums. It brings serious trouble to millions. But no need to quit candy. Just brush your teeth twice daily with Phillips' Dental Magnesia tooth paste. That is alkaline. The tooth brush forces it wherever the acid forms. And all mouth acids perish at its touch. It is based on Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, recommended by dentists for fifty years to neutralize the acids ever forming in the mouth. It also makes teeth glisten. It cleans and polishes in the best ways known. Its antiseptics combat germ attacks in the mouth. Its deodorants purify the breath. Never before was so much help combined in a single dentifrice. It will delight you, and do for you and yours what nothing else has done. You will never go a day without it when you know. Go find out what it means to you today.

Five in One
Its 15 ingredients combine in one tooth paste these five important helps:

Let's get down to cases

YOU don't need a degree from Oxford to figure out why so many men smoke pipes today—and enjoy them. Pipe-smoking has increased at least three-fold since Prince Albert came into the picture. And pipe-pleasure has increased a thousand-fold. And with good reason!

Prince Albert in the bowl of your pipe means pipe-joy coming up the stem. That's the story of P.A.'s tremendous popularity in a pipe-bowl. You suspect that Prince Albert is wonderful tobacco the instant you open the tidy red tin and set free that rich, rare fragrance. That's a treat in itself!

Your "suspicious" are confirmed the minute that cool, comforting smoke comes rolling over your tongue. Never did pipe-tobacco taste as good as that. Cool and sweet and mellow and mild—long-burning—why, P. A. just has everything you ever wanted in a smoke, including complete satisfaction.

No matter how hard you hit it up, P. A. never bites your tongue or parches your throat. You can start in right after breakfast and stay with it until bedtime. You may think your pipe is delivering capacity pipe-joy now. Never mind. Until you've tried P. A., you won't know.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, round and half-pound tin tins, and round crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

WILE SAYS:

to Peking, American, British, French, German and Japanese forces were engaged in hostilities with Chinese regulars and irregulars.
Loss of life was considerable on both sides, and as all the world remembers, the big foreign community besieged within the legation compound at Peking was more than once in gravest jeopardy.

It is to avoid a repetition of these perilous contingencies that the powers are discussing removal of their nationals from the Peking area. The foreign governments are determined not to run the risk of another Nanking outbreak in the regions of North China, toward which from several directions the Cantonese armies are now sweeping. If time is taken by the forelock, the authorities at Washington and other capitals are convinced that dangers can be averted.

If the powers wait until the Nationalist hosts approach Peking, it might be too late to ward off disaster. If the ancient city is not evacuated and it should be decided to defend it at all costs, the most conservative estimate is that it would need anywhere from 25, 000 to 30,000 allied troops effectively to protect foreign lives and interests in Peking.

Roughly, about 800 Americans are now in the city. They include some 100 persons comprising Minister MacMurray's legation staff, together with their families; 400 United States Marines serving as legation guards; and 300 odd men and women attached to the Congressional, Presbyterian, Methodist and Roman Catholic missionary headquarters, and to the Rockefeller medical institute, hospital and training school. There is only a handful of American business people in Peking.

Peking is more than 100 miles by rail to the sea at Tientsin. That thin line of communications would have to be held by strong forces, with constant danger of attack from two sides, if the old capital were not evacuated and the powers attempted to protect their people there. By removing the latter to the seaboard, they could easily be provisioned and safeguarded, to say nothing of obviating the necessity of actual fighting operations between an allied defending force and Chinese assailants. At this writing, the powers are not definitely planning to quit Peking.

The assembly of United States marines at Tientsin is merely a far-sighted precautionary measure, in case that city should become the headquarters of the foreign lega-tions. The military situation in north China is steadily becoming more menacing for the northern Chinese armies, which have already retired behind the Yellow River. But if the situation shows signs of becoming aggravated, the evacuation of Peking is likely to be undertaken at short notice.

Japan's dispatch of 2,000 troops to Tientsin, the capital of Shanttung province, is an event of deep significance. Although the Japanese renounced, at the Washington conference in 1922, their former "special rights" in Shantung, their important commercial interests in the province remained.

Abandonment of Peking as a legation headquarters would in all probability drive the last nail in the coffin of the "shadow government" which America and other powers continue, to this hour, to recognize as the only government of China. In fact, for many months, the Peking "government" has consisted of nothing but the Chinese foreign office, where the famed Wellington Koo presides, and of the Chinese ministry of communications. Once the foreign ministers have shaken the dust of Peking from their feet, all vestige of the China that now counts for China in the capitals of the world would practically vanish.

recklessness in his nature. They recall several incidents, and shake their heads over them.

He was, I learned, a boy who preferred his own society to a crowd. A keen sportsman and an excellent shot, he found delight in frequent sallies into the surrounding woods with only a bird dog for company. He was an amateur trapper, too, and many a day he spent in the woods, not returning until late at night.

School and study interested young Clarence Chamberlin very little. Mechanics were his hobby, and he was always tinkering with some odds and ends of machinery, putting cogs together and taking them apart again, bruising his fingers and breaking his fingernails.

"Just look at your hands," was an exclamation frequently wrung from his exasperated mother's lips, after some especially oily adventure.

Some of this tendency he unquestionably inherited from his father who is an expert watchmaker and a craftsman of high quality at this exceedingly delicate art. The Chamberlin jewel-store is prosperous, and Clarence never wanted for anything to satisfy his mechanical habit.

Raced on Motorcycle
He owned the first motorcycle ever seen in Xenia, just as a year or so before the Chamberlin family had owned the first automobile, and between the automobile and his motorcycle he became on terms of close acquaintance with gasoline engines almost before he was in long pants.

The adventurous instinct in the boy took him with his motorcycle to state affairs continuously, and he won several prizes.

Feminine society didn't appeal to Clarence, although the girls sought him out, for he was a handsome blonde lad and his devil-may-care attitude was unquestion-ably a lure, too.

"Clarence," said his sister, Mrs.
Max Moffitt "was always teasing the girls. He had a stripped down Ford car after he disposed of his motorcycle. One of his pet stunts was to load that old rat-tlerap with girls, in midwinter, dash down the icy street at top speed, and then jam on the brakes. The crazy thing would spin around like a top. Several times he spilled the girls out, but nobody ever seemed to get hurt

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

The Rovin' Ritzies

By Flo Frederick

Bill takes 'em slow and knocks 'em for a row! Although there were over a dozen boys gathered in the Collins back yard, there was very little noise or commotion to be heard. They had settled down to the serious business of winning the Ritzie marble tournament and each boy was intent upon his play.

There were exactly sixteen boys entered in the tournament, and their names were chalked up on the big score board that Marty had erected. Two boys had been elected to official positions, one to act as referee and the other as scorer. Marty and the twins were enlisted in the tournament and though they had worked out the rules for Old Jupe, which was to be the tournament game, they felt little assured that any of them would win. Perhaps it would be better if they didn't for the winner was to play the best man of Max Mason's crowd, wearing the Ritzie colors, and this was the game that had to be won at all cost of personal pride. The Ritzie colors simply couldn't go down to defeat before Max and his gang, and if someone else could play a better game, and beat Max's sharpshooter, they wouldn't feel sorry about seeing the fight passing into other hands. The Ritzies hadn't quite decided what they would do if this should happen. Should they take the winner into the club, or just give him special club privileges? Oh, well, this was something that would be worked out later on, and anyway one of the three might win the tournament and thereby eliminate all difficulties.

All sixteen boys plunged into the tournament with a will. Whether it was winning the beautiful badges that Patsy had made that spurred them on or the fact that the winner was to wear the Ritzie colors and play Max's best man is not known, but never did boys take more careful aim than in that tournament game of Old Jupe. Of course they had had a trial play on the star, and so they didn't make the many mistakes that they did the first time they tried this new game of the Ritzies. Occasionally someone forgot to shoot the marble nearest him and of course this caused a shout of glee among the contestants, for it not only caused him to lose his turn but gave an additional point to his opponent.

The tournament was played off in twos, the loser to be eliminated from the game and the winner going on target, finger his shooter and finally to play the winner of

WOLFORD WORKS ON FLOOD PREVENTION

J. J. Wolford, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Wolford, Hoop Road, received his master's degree in geology from Ohio State University June 6.

This date is slightly in advance of the regular spring commencement but special arrangements were made for Wolford, due to his having been employed by the U. S. Engineers Corps for geologic work relative to the construction of power and flood-prevention dams along the Tennessee River.

Wolford stopped over on his way to Tennessee for a short visit with his parents and to be present at his sister's high school commencement.

RAIN MAKES WEEDS
IN ONION CROPS

KENTON, O., June 8.—School boys in this section are praying that the rain will stop.

Onion crops in the marsh sections near here will soon be lost in the weeds if the rain continues and boys will have the back-breaking job of pulling them out as soon as school lets out this month.

Farm hands who annually migrate to this section from Kentucky will also be given plenty of work in the onion field pulling out the weeds from all indications.

JAMESTOWN

Quite a number of the members of the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Presbyterian Church met with Mrs. Roscoe Turner, Friday afternoon for their June meeting. Mrs. L. L. Gray presided and also led the devotion. The topic, "Moslem Women," was taken from the last chapter of the mission study book. Mrs. R. C. Turnbull and Mrs. Fred Nelson had a part on the program. Miss Mattie Williams added to the interest of the meeting with a talk on Egypt. Miss Catherine, daughter of Mrs. R. L. Dean, gave a talk portraying the beauties of the flowers of the Bible. During the social hour, the hostess served ices, cake and coffee.

Miss Frances Reeves has returned from the Ohio University at Athens where she took a year's course in the normal department for the training of teachers, as that will be her vocation.

Mr. Charles W. Sharp spent the week-end in Columbus with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Adams.

Miss Mary T. Waters left on Saturday for Baltimore, Md., where she will visit her father, Mr. John Waters. Her grandfather, Mr. Thomas Thuma and Mr. and Mrs. John David accompanied her as far as Ironton, where they made a visit with relatives.

Miss Mary Louise Carpenter has returned to the home of her grandmother, Mrs. A. G. Carpenter, after a month's visit with her mother in Xenia.

Mrs. Alma Laird and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Laird and son, Robert, of Columbus, were guests over Saturday with Jameson relatives. On Sunday morning they were with Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Jenkins and daughter, Miss Leontine and son, Max, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Robinson, motored to Seamen, Adams Co., where they were the guests of Mrs. Robert McCollough, a sister of the late M. T. McCright, of Jamestown.

Miss Mattie Williams has returned to Jamestown from Melbourne, Fla., where she spent the winter in her home there, which she does every year.

The Rev. and Mrs. L. L. Gray left on Monday for New Concord to attend the week's activities of the closing of Muskingum College, including the commencement and other exercises. Mr. Gray meets with the board of trustees of which he is a member.

Miss Mary Frances Twetters, who taught in the Opportunity School in Xenia, will spend her summer vacation in Jamestown with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Clark.

Mr. Dwight Gray will return home Saturday from Medina, where he has taught in the high school.

Mrs. G. R. Bardsill spent last week in London with her sisters, the Misses Jeannette and Grace Neiberger.

The Jamestown friends of Mr. Otto Thorpe, of Columbus, are interested in learning that he has won the annual oratorical contest of the College of Commerce of Columbus, Y. M. C. A. schools, and has had his name engraved on the Avery G. Clinger cup as the third outstanding public speaker in the annals of the "Y" school. Mr. Thorpe's subject was "Riding in Used Cars," of which his illustration and applications were aptly portrayed by the different methods and phases of every day life and stressing the fact that up-to-date and new principles are essential to all lines of business and enterprises. Mr. Thorpe is a graduate of the O. S. and S. O. Home at Xenia and where he obtained his training for his business vocation. He is a son-in-law of H. D. Buckles, and formerly lived here and was in the employ of N. N. Hunter before moving with his family to Columbus a few years ago and is now holding a responsible position with the Pennsylvania railroad.

Mrs. J. A. Mercer will be the hostess on Wednesday afternoon to the members of the Rural Improvement Club for their monthly meeting. The "Mother's Day" program which was deferred last month on account of the illness of the hostess, Mrs. C. W. Mott, will be rendered at this meeting.

Mrs. Frank Foster opened her home on Thursday afternoon for the June meeting of the W. F. M. S. of the M. E. Church. Miss E. May Harper presided. Mrs. J. H. Parker had charge of the devotion. Mrs. J. A. Bevan was leader of the program, assisted by Mrs. M. F. Titus and Mrs. H. D. Buckles, who each gave readings. The topic was "The Book of Books." The session was closed with a prayer by Mrs. L. D. Vesey. The hostess served light refreshments and a social hour enjoyed.
